Parent and Family Education Programs

Have you always wanted to work with families in your community? Do you want to support parents and their children as they journey through parenthood? Have you heard about or participated in a district Early Childhood Family Education (ECFE) program and want to see yourself represented in the educational profession?

Career Options

Our fully online program will prepare you to design, deliver and evaluate family-focused programs for adult learners. Our graduates work as:

- Early Childhood Family Education (ECFE)

- Family Engagement and Family Literacy

- County and non-profit agencies, including family services, religious settings and home visiting programs

Program options:

Master's of Family Education (MEd)

Minn. Teaching License in Parent and Family Education

Parent Education Certificate

Paying for your Education

Scholarships are available for both new and current Parent and Family Education students and are typically awarded once or twice per year. Many of the award opportunities listed require students to complete a Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).

In addition, the Parent and Family Education team has identified potential funding sources outside of the University of Minnesota, including state and private programs designed to support educators.

To learn more information about application deadlines and eligibility requirements visit the FSoS Departmental Fellowships, Scholarships and Awards page and External Funding Resources page, use the QR code.

You can also reach out to Maggie Beaupre DeYoung, Parent and Family Education Advisor, at famed@umn.edu.
